The ICTP Campus consists of five buildings. There is a shuttle service connecting the ICTP buildings (the timetable is available at the Reception Desks of the guest houses).

Main Building (MB)
The main building houses all services necessary for scientists to conduct their research—the library, computing facilities, offices for research groups, including those for Condensed Matter Physics, High Energy Physics, Mathematics, and Physics of Weather and Climate, plus lecture rooms and offices for staff and scientists, including the Director's Office. It also houses a cafeteria and bar.

Enrico Fermi Building (EFB)
The Enrico Fermi Building houses most of the administrative offices, including offices for the Centre’s financial and travel services. It also contains offices for the following programmes: Associates and Federation Schemes, Office of External Activities, Training and Research in Italian Laboratories, and Donation Programme.

Microprocessor Laboratory (Microlab)
The Microlab is found in a building just north of the Enrico Fermi Building.
Adriatico Guesthouse (AGH)

Galileo Guesthouse (GGH)

Accommodation on the hill (behind the Main Building). The Galileo Guesthouse can accommodate 100 scientists in private and double rooms. It also has offices for the Aeronomy and Radiopropagation Laboratory and the Structure and Nonlinear Dynamics of the Earth Group
